Henry Repeating Arms Donates 50 Custom “Team Zach” Rifles for 3-Year-Old Fighting Leukemia

RICE LAKE, Wis. (October 22, 2026) — Henry Repeating Arms just launched a limited edition of 50 custom “Team Zach” lever-action rifles as part of their Guns For Great Causes program to benefit Zach Bryant, a three-year-old from Cambridge City, Indiana, who is in treatment for B-cell acute lymphoblastic leukemia (B-ALL). The rifles, donated by Henry, are selling online and at auction with every dollar raised going directly to Zach’s family to help cover the cost of his care. Proceeds are expected to exceed $35,000.

Of the 50 rifles, 47 are available now at HenryUSA.com for $675 each while they last, two are being auctioned, and one is being held for Zach’s family. The first and final rifles in the run, Serial Nos. TEAMZACH01 and TEAMZACH50, are up for auction on GunBroker.com (TEAMZACH01 | TEAMZACH50), with bidding on both closing Wednesday, November 4, 2026, at 9:00 p.m. Eastern. Henry retains none of the proceeds from the sales or the auctions.

Zach was diagnosed at two and a half. His treatment includes chemotherapy, steroids, lumbar punctures, and bone marrow biopsies, and it is scheduled to run through March 2028. Most of it takes place at Cincinnati Children’s Hospital, nearly two hours from the family’s home each way. Zach turned three this spring and, through all of it, he has stayed a happy kid according to his parents.

The money from Team Zach is meant for the costs that pile up around a long treatment plan: gas for a lot of four-hour round trips, hospital bills that keep arriving between rounds of chemo, and enough breathing room for two parents to focus on their son’s mental and physical wellbeing instead of the next statement in the mail.

Everything Zach loves made it onto the “Team Zach” rifle. Full-color artwork on the genuine American walnut buttstock shows a yellow dump truck with “Team Zach” on the door, a red race car with his name on the side, a checkered flag, and a fishing rod with a fish on the line, all beneath a “Team Zach” nameplate. The rifle is Henry’s H1 Frontier Carbine, a compact lever-action chambered in .22 S/L/LR with a 16.5-inch octagon barrel and a large loop lever, made in Wisconsin and backed by Henry’s Lifetime Warranty. The rifles are serialized TEAMZACH01 through TEAMZACH50.

One of them is not for sale. Serial No. TEAMZACH48 will stay with the Bryants, who chose the number for Zach’s birthday, April 8. They plan to give it to him when he is old enough to understand what it stands for.

“Zach is three years old and has already gone through more than I hope most of us will in our entire lives,” said Anthony Imperato, Founder and CEO of Henry Repeating Arms. “We can’t make the treatment any easier for him, and we can’t cure cancer, but we can build something good, put his name on it, tell his story, and give the Henry Family an opportunity to help carry some of the load for his mom and dad.”

“The proceeds from the 50 donated rifles are an absolute blessing to our family during Zach’s cancer diagnosis,” said Logan Bryant, Zach’s father. “We are profoundly grateful to Henry Repeating Arms for their amazing compassion and dedication in making this campaign happen, and we cannot thank Henry and everyone who bid or bought a rifle enough for your incredible generosity.”

Team Zach is the latest campaign of Guns For Great Causes, Henry’s charitable program, which has supported families of sick children, children’s hospitals, military veteran organizations, law enforcement and first responder groups, Second Amendment advocacy organizations, and wildlife conservation efforts. Guns For Great Causes has donated more than $4 million to date.
